DESTRUCTIVE TWISTERS CAUSE 66 DEATHS

HOST INJURED, LARGE AMOUNT PROPERTY DAMAGE

VICIOUS WEATHER EVOLVES INTO CYCLONIC GALES RIP- PING THROUGH DISTRICTS

DAYBREAK REVEALS FULL EX- TENT OF TRAGEDY IN MANY STRICKEN COMMUNITIES

Dallas, Texas, May 7.—(U.P.)—Nature, loosening furious winds, left crushed communities in Texas and nearby southwestern areas today in the wake of destructive twisters which claimed a heavy toll of human life, a host of injured and a staggering amount of property damage.

Vicious weather evolved into cyclonic gales which ripped through widely separated districts of Texas and Oklahoma late Tuesday.

Tornado torn towns were counting their dead and injured today while whole communities surveyed scenes of desolation.

A revision of death lists by relief workers at mid-morning showed that 66 persons had lost their lives. The muddy crew of men and women who brought relief to an area about six miles long in and near Norheim reported 25 bodies were recovered. The farming community of Frost near here reported 23 dead.

The storm stricken sections reported the number of dead as follows:

Frost, 23; rural communities around Runge and Nordheim, 27; communities around Waco, 10; Kennedy, 12; Bynum, 7; Spur, 4; Ensign, 2; Ennis, 1; San Antonio, 1; Bronson, 1.

The communities of Nordheim along the gulf coast, and Frost, southeast of Dallas, felt the greatest fury of the storm. Forty-five persons were reported dead in these communities.

A wind which gathered momentum roared along the gulf and twisted downward at Nordheim, picking up houses and dashing them to pieces. It swooped through the village of Runge, nearby, and raced away, leaving the screams of the injured in the darkness where dead lay under dripping skies. Twenty-two bodies had been counted in this area shortly after the storm subsided and first grey streaks of morning light appeared.

Meanwhile, a like scene of chaos was created at Frost, several miles south of Dallas. A blasting funnel of wind and cloud descended, destroying homes and leaving twenty-three persons dead in the mud and wreckage. Terror rode through the town and surrounding rural sections. Those who were not injured could talk only in unconnected phrases of what happened.

At daybreak the full tragedy was revealed. The wind had passed. Weeks of work remain, however, before that part of its damage which can be repaired is effaced. Communication lines were strewn uselessly over the roads and fields.

A search was begun for other bodies which may be hidden in the wreckage. Hospitals and first aid stations were crowded. Nordheim and Frost, however, were only the greatest sufferers.

Kansas City, Mo., May 7.—Heavy rains blocked tornado rehabilitation work, causing swollen streams and delayed planting in Kansas today. Junction City feared floods with the Republican river five feet above normal.

Three hundred men awaited weather conditions that would permit them to enter the 12-mile area around Winchester. A downpour yesterday delayed their work. Relief work was also held up in the tornado areas near Hutchinson.

Central Kansas received three inches of rain which tapered off to the western part of the state. Junction City received one and a quarter inches of rain. Northeast corn planters were idle.

SEARCH FOR SLAYER OF GAME WARDEN IS DISCONTINUED

Grand Rapids, Minn., May 7.—(U.P.)—Active search of the alleged slayer of Norman D. Fairbanks, Sr., deputy game warden, was given up today. Sheriff Howard A. Hammond of Itasca county said after a posse of 50 men had completed a three-day search through the north woods without finding a single clue.

The entire territory north of Grand Rapids was covered without a trace of the killer being uncovered. Sheriff Hammond said today that he was certain that the slayer, believed to be a former North Dakota convict, had escaped from the forest.

A lookout will be maintained, he said, but no active hunt will be continued.

Rewards for the apprehension of the slayer reached a total of $800 today when the village council of Hibbing offered $300 for the capture of the man who shot Fairbanks.

Plan to Lift U. S. Navy to Parity With British

Gerhard J. Bundlie Wins
Mayorality of St. Paul

St. Paul, Minn., May 7.—(U.P.)—Gerhard J. Bundlie, who earned his way through school to study law, and a world war veteran, will be St. Paul's new mayor when L. C. Hodgson vacates his present office after a fifth term as mayor on June 2.

Bundlie, who was regarded as a "new deal" candidate, defeated James M. Clancy, labor mayorality candidate, who for 12 years served as a city councilman and for the past six years as commissioner of public safety.

The complete unofficial vote showed: Bundlie, 38,072; Clancy, 29,013; majority, 9,059.

SENATE REJECTS NOMINATION OF JUDGE PARKER

REFUSES TO CONFIRM HOOVER'S
NOMINEE FOR U. S. SU-PREME COURT

ACTION CLIMAXES A LONG AND BITTER STRUGGLE
IN CASE

Washington, May 7.—(U.P.)—The senate rejected today President Hoover's nomination of John J. Parker to be associate justice of the United States supreme court.

The action climaxed a long and bitter struggle in which the administration brought unprecedented pressure to bear for confirmation of the North Carolina republican jurist.

The vote was 39 to 41.

The defeat, the first rejection of a supreme court nominee in 36 years, was due chiefly to the bitter opposition of organized labor and negro organizations.

The rejection, forecast several weeks ago when the senate judiciary committee reported unfavorably by a 10-4 vote, means the present must now submit another name to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Justice Sanford.

Twenty-nine republicans and ten democrats voted to confirm Parker. Seventeen republicans joined with 23 democrats and one farmer-laborite, Shipstead, Minnesota, to defeat him.

President Hoover was at lunch when the Parker vote reached the executive office and it was not known immediately whether he would make any comment on the rejection.

The roll call follows:
For Parker, 39:
Republicans, 29—Allen, Baird, Bingham, Dale, Fess, Gillett, Goldsborough, Gould, Greene, Hale, Hastings, Hatfield, Hebert, Jones, Kean, Keyes, McCulloch, Metcalf, Oddie, Patterson, Reed, Shortridge, Smoot, Sullivan, Thomas, Idaho; Townsend, Walcott, Waterman, Watson.

Democrats, 10—Blease, Broussard, Glass, Harrison, Overman, Ransdell, Simmons, Steele, Stephens, Swanson.

Against, 41:
Republicans, 17—Borah, Blaine, Capper, Couzens, Cutting, Deneen, Frazier, Lowell, Johnson, LaFollette, Norris, Nyne, Robinson, Indiana; Schall, Steiwer, Vandenberg.

Democrats, 23—Ashurst, Barkley, Black, Bratton, Brock, Caraway, Connally, Copeland, Dill, Harris, Hawes, Hayden, Kendrick, McKellar, Pittman, Robinson, Arkansas; Sheppard, Trammell, Tydings, Wagner, Walsh, Massachusetts; Walsh, Montana; Wheeler.

Farm-labor, 1—Shipstead.
The full power of the administration was thrown into the fight for confirmation soon after the opposition developed when Parker's name was submitted March 31.

As the opposition gained momentum many republican senators visited the White House in the early days of the fight and beseeched Mr. Hoover to withdraw the nomination as they feared union labor and negro supporters of the party would be withdrawn due to their bitter opposition to Parker.

Mr. Hoover steadfastly refused to take this step, even at the suggestion of Vice President Curtis, who once acted as the agent of the disturbed republican senators.

The Parker opposition was led by Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, who based his attack solely upon Parker's circuit court decision in the Red Jacket coal case. In this, the North Carolina jurist affirmed the validity of the anti-union or "yellow dog" contract as it is called by union miners.

Borah and his associates contended the Parker decision broke the back of the United Mine Workers in West Virginia, restraining them by injunction even from conversing with non-union employees in the mines. They maintained that if such a decision is permitted to stand union labor will be condemned to involuntary servitude.

The anti-union contract is one signed by an employee in which he agrees to have nothing to do with the union. Under this contract, employers are able to obtain injunctions in the courts keeping the union away from their men.

CRIME PROBLEM IS SOLVED AT PHILLIPSBURG

Phillipsburg, Kan., May 7.—(U.P.)—The crime problem, which has baffled officials and police, has been solved in part by Phillips county officials. At least, the next man who steals a ukelele will not have one technical delay in his favor.

When Jim Crouse, Ogan, Kan., restaurant man, demanded the arrest of Bud Williams, 20, for the theft of a ukelele and other property, he encountered delay in the necessary papers because W. A. Barron, county attorney, could not spell "ukelele."

A doctor in the next office and the county superintendent were also counted out in the spelling bee. Crouse received his ukelele back, and the county officials learned how to spell it, when Bud pleaded guilty to burglary and was sentenced to one year in the Kansas reformatory.

TROOPS CLASH WITH BANDS OF REVOLUTIONARIES

FOUR INSURGENTS KILLED ON BANK OF THE RIVER KARNAPULI

FOUR PERSONS INJURED IN RELIGIOUS RIOT BETWEEN HINDUS AND MOSLEMS

Calcutta, India, May 7.—(U.P.)—Troops clashed with revolutionary bands on the bank of the river Karnapuli, opposite Chittagong, today, killing four of the insurgents.

A villager also was killed in the fighting and five others, including a constable, were reported seriously wounded.

Two of the rebels were captured in the skirmish.

Chittagong, which is an important strategic city of Bengal, recently was the scene of severe fighting in which at least nine persons were killed and the police armories burned by raiding insurgents.

Strong troop patrols have been in the Chittagong district since the raid.

Bombay, India, May 7.—Four persons were reported seriously injured in a religious riot between Hindus and Moslems at Amalner, in the East Khandesh district today.

Moslem shopkeepers refused to observe a hartal in protest against the arrest of Mahatma Gandhi. Hindus attacked them and beat the shopkeepers, who opened fire. Police restored order.

Congress, eighth district—Carl E. Birkman, Chisholm.

Congress, tenth district—William J. Gallagher, Minneapolis; J. Ernest T. McLaughlin, Minneapolis; Axel W. Peterson, Robbinsdale.

WHEN 30,000 GALLONS OF OIL BLAZE

Thirty thousand gallons of oil and gasoline fed this blaze, which destroyed the storage tanks in the plant of the Inter-Ocean Sales Corporation on the Joliet road, near Lyons, Ill. Starting on a truck, the flames spread by a series of explosions which spattered oil over a wide area to ten tanks, each of 3,000-gallon capacity. Fire companies from Chicago and surrounding towns tackled the blaze with sand and chemicals, water being useless. The loss was estimated at $250,000.

PLEADS NOT GUILTY TO AIDING WORK OF BANK ROBBERY

Alma, Wis., May 7.—(U.P.)—Lawrence Doyle, Minneapolis, was held in jail today in default of a $10,000 bond after he pleaded not guilty to aiding in the Nelson, Wis., bank robbery.

Trial of Doyle, who is charged with being an accessory after the fact, was set for May 15.

Dorothy Miller, 22, and Elizabeth Jackson, 25, Chicago waitresses, are held in jail as material witnesses against Doyle.

FROST, TEXAS, RESEMBLES A WAR-TORN TOWN

NATURE RUSHED AGAINST IT
WITH ITS WORST WEAPON, WIND

EVERY BUSINESS BUILDING WAS LEVELLED IN VILLAGE OF
1,200 PERSONS

By RICHARD L. HARKNESS
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Frost, Texas, May 7.—This once thriving town resembled a war-torn village today after nature had rushed against it with its worst weapon—wind.

Relief workers plodded through its ruins, seeking victims of a tornado which had levelled every business building in the town of 1,200 persons. There were 23 known dead.

The damage here was estimated at $2,000,000.

Members of relief agencies had worked all night in the glare of camp fires which illuminated a scene of stark desolation.

The camp fires were used as much for heat as for illumination as the hundreds of homeless men, women and children had no other way to ward off the cold. A power plant was strung around the ravaged area, but the chilly night air sent grim-faced relief workers time and again to the camp fires for warmth.

The town of Frost went about its business as usual Tuesday, never dreaming what the fate had in store for it. Late in the afternoon a dark cloud appeared from the south and another from the west and converged upon the helpless community with such suddenness that most of the victims were trapped in their homes with no knowledge of the impending disaster.

Immediately after the storm struck fire broke out in the ruins of the business section. A lightning bolt was believed responsible for the conflagration. A heavy downpour quenched the flames but soon another fire broke out in the residential district, adding to the horrors of the catastrophe.

Volunteer fire fighters succeeded in extinguishing the flames and then began the task of providing relief.

"We never knew what hit us. I had been looking out of the window noting two heavy black clouds, one from the west and one from the south, and they seemed to strike here at the same time," said Edgar Bowman. He was not injured.

Bowman's father and mother were killed and his wife and son were injured.

"We were all sitting in the house when it struck. The wind turned the house over on its side before we knew what had happened. Our home was demolished and all of our furniture scattered over half a block. The storm seems to have cut a swath about 30 feet wide and our house stood squarely in the center of its path. I just can't realize that everything is gone. It was so sudden it is almost unbelievable," he added.

Two hundred and fifty children attending school escaped injury.

The tornado ripped the roof off the school building but not a single child was hurt.

The scene was described by T. J. Slay, farmer.

"I was going to take my little girl, Dorothy, home from school when the storm struck."

"After seeing it rip through the business district as if it were cardboard I knew that if the children were released from school they would all be killed by flying timbers or dashed to earth by the wind."

"With the aid of two teachers we locked the children inside the school house and snuggled them together in the rooms and hallways."

"One terrific gust of wind tore off the school house roof and every window in the building was broken. It happened so fast we scarcely knew what it was all about but a check showed not a child had been hurt."

Twenty-one persons were saved from almost certain death when they shut themselves into vaults of the two banks here.

Five took refuge in the First National Bank with John Beck and 16 crowded into the vault of the Citizens' State Bank with Rufe Shaw.

BILLION DOLLAR 10-YEAR PROGRAM BEING PREPARED

CHAIRMAN BRITTEN OF HOUSE
NAVAL AFFAIRS COMMITTEE
LEADING SPIRIT

NAVY APPROPRIATION BILL FOR
1931 ALSO TO BE REPORTED
TO HOUSE TODAY

Washington, May 7.—(U.P.)—The senate foreign relations committee today sought the unwritten history of the London naval treaty as Chairman Britten of the house naval affairs committee prepared a $1,000,000,000 ten-year building program to lift the American navy to parity with the British.

The navy appropriation bill for 1931 also was to be reported to the house today. It will somewhat indicate the extent to which the London conference has changed American naval building plans.

President Hoover's budget message asked $380,392,000 for the navy next year compared with the $362,061,000 appropriated for the current fiscal period. Mr. Hoover sought funds to complete modernization of the battleships Arizona and Pennsylvania and to continue or begin construction of the 15 cruisers and the aircraft carrier authorized in the 1929 naval bill.

Eight cruisers of a previous authorization have been launched and two are in commission. With the latter 15 the United States would possess 23 cruisers mounting eight-inch guns.

The London treaty, however, limited America's quota of such cruisers to 18. This compulsory alteration of congress' naval building program will be a center of debate.

Senator Robinson, democrat, Arkansas, who is a committee member and was a delegate to the conference will give the senate committee the first report on the treaty. Senator Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, the other senatorial delegate, reached New York last night on his return from the conference.

Chairman Hale of the senate naval affairs committee announced hearings for last Monday but was dissuaded and will not call his committee together until Stimson has appeared before the foreign relations group.

Britten says he wants treaty hearings before his house committee, too.

The naval appropriation bill is on the house calendar for Thursday and if taken up then will give that body first chance to discuss the London treaty.

Until tomorrow, however, the attention of senators was taken with the vote on Judge John J. Parker to be associate justice of the supreme court. The vote is set for 1:30 P. M.

Friends of the North Carolina republican jurist led by Republican Floor Leader Watson claimed they have sufficient votes up their sleeves to win by a tie or a single vote. The polls of the opposition led by Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, showed a possible majority of five or more votes for rejection.

Not since Cleveland's administration has the senate rejected a nomination to the supreme court. Never in the history of the senate has such a stubborn and bitter contest been staged as this feud which broke down party lines, aroused charges of patronage bribe offers and split even the administration supporters.

The patronage bribe charge is not expected to change a single vote, although some senators still believe an investigation should be authorized by the senate. They believe the senate should trace down the statement of Senator Dill, democrat, Washington, that he was offered a federal judgeship by a "gentleman" from his state. He said he did not take the offer seriously.

Senator Ashurst, democrat, Arizona, who brought the charge to light in yesterday's dramatic session of the senate, declared Dill had attempted to pass off the seriousness of the offer and did not blame him.

The Hawley-Smoot tariff bill faced an uncertain future in the senate today, the first anniversary of its birth.

The conference report on the long pending bill was to be submitted to the senate today, exactly one year from the date of its formal introduction in the house by Chairman Hawley of the house ways and means committee, one of its co-authors.

Procedure for consideration of the report was uncertain. Leaders of the various senate factions had not decided what they would do with it, or what items they would contest.

Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, will be invited to appear before the senate lobby committee in a week or ten days to answer testimony which has involved him in the financing of the anti-Smith movement in the south. Chairman Caraway announced today.

The bishop will be confronted, as soon as he returns from Texas, with the testimony of the "angel" of the anti-Smith campaign, Edwin C. Jameson, New York industrialist. Jameson said he gave $65,300 to Cannon and $50,000 to a democratic constitutional league during the last presidential campaign.

HINDUS AND MUSLIMS

Calcutta, India, May 7.—(UP)—Troops clashed with revolutionary bands on the bank of the river Karnafuli, opposite Chittagong, today, killing four of the insurgents.

A villager also was killed in the fighting and five others, including a constable, were reported seriously wounded.

Two of the rebels were captured in the skirmish. Chittagong, which is an important strategic city of Bengal, recently was the scene of severe fighting in which at least nine persons were killed and the police armories burned by raiding insurgents.

Strong troop patrols have been in the Chittagong district since the raid.

Bombay, India, May 7.—Four persons were reported seriously injured in a religious riot between Hindus and Muslims at Amalner, in the East Khandesh district today.

Muslim shopkeepers refused to observe a hartal in protest against the arrest of Mahatma Gandhi. Hindus attacked them and beat the shopkeepers, who opened fire. Police restored order.

MOTHER KILLS 7 OF HER CHILDREN WITH A RIFLE

5TH BULLET, INTENDED TO KILL
HERSELF, ONLY WOUNDS
MRS. ETHEL YELDEN

POOR WOMAN HAD WORKED DAY AND NIGHT TO KEEP BROOD OF 12 TOGETHER

Columbus, O., May 7.—(UP)—The bodies of seven of Mrs. Ethel Yelden's 12 children lay side by side in a morgue today, clad in the night clothes in which their mother dressed them after she killed them, one by one, with a rifle.

Mrs. Yelden lay on a hospital cot with a wound in her shoulder. The eighth bullet, intended to bring rest to her weary body after years of ceaseless toil, was the only one that missed its mark.

Supporting her family was even a more difficult job after her second husband was sent to the Ohio penitentiary. Mrs. Yelden found. She did her best by tending a news stand at night and taking in washing during the day.

Yesterday was an unusual day for the family. For one thing, Mrs. Yelden gathered ten of the children together, took them in taxis to a photographer and had a group picture taken. Then she took them shopping and bought them some new clothes.

When she got home she sat down and wrote two notes. One was addressed to the children.

"Don't think too bad of mother for this," she said. "Just always do what is right. Listen to older advice. It will always be for your good whatever is told you."

"I am so tired. I can't go on, and no one to care for the rest is why I take them. I want you to go to church, do as you are taught, and try to live this down."

The children were at home when she finished. Mildred Geller, 17, daughter by her first marriage, was sent to a grocery. Vernon, 12, was sent to mind the news stand. The others prepared for bed.

What followed is not quite clear. It appeared that she shot the younger children while they were asleep, and then called the others, one by one, to an upstairs bedroom and shot them in the heart with a .22 calibre rifle, a towel held over the muzzle to muffle the sound.

Dorothy Miller, 22, and Elizabeth Jackson, 25, Chicago waitresses, are held in jail as material witnesses against Doyle.

FROST, TEXAS, RESEMBLES A WAR-TORN TOWN

NATURE RUSHED AGAINST IT WITH ITS WORST WEAP-ON, WIND

EVERY BUSINESS BUILDING WAS LEVELLED IN VILLAGE OF
1,200 PERSONS

By RICHARD L. HARKNESS
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Frost, Texas, May 7.—This once thriving town resembled a war-torn village today after nature had rushed against it with its worst weapon—wind.

Relief workers plodded through its ruins, seeking victims of a tornado which had levelled every business building in the town of 1,200 persons. There were 23 known dead.

The damage here was estimated at $2,000,000.

Members of relief agencies had worked all night in the glare of camp fires which illuminated a scene of stark desolation.

The camp fires were used as much for heat as for illumination as the hundreds of homeless men, women and children had no other way to ward off the cold. A power plant was erected hastily and electric lights strung around the ravaged area, but the chilly night air sent grim-faced relief workers time and again to the camp fires for warmth.

The town of Frost went about its business as usual Tuesday, never dreaming what the fates had in store for it. Late in the afternoon a dark cloud appeared from the south and another from the west and converged upon the helpless community with such suddenness that most of the victims were trapped in their homes with no knowledge of the impending disaster.

Immediately after the storm struck fire broke out in the ruins of the business section. A lightning bolt was believed responsible for the conflagration. A heavy downpour quenched the flames but soon another fire broke out in the residential district, adding to the horrors of the catastrophe. Volunteer fire fighters succeeded in extinguishing the flames and then began the task of providing relief.

"We never knew what hit us. I had been looking out of the window noticing two heavy black clouds, one from the west and one from the south, and they seemed to strike here at the same time," said Edgar Bowman. He was not injured.

Bowman's father and mother were killed and his wife and son were injured.

"We were all sitting in the house when it struck. The wind turned the house over on its side before we knew what had happened. Our home was demolished and all of our furniture scattered over half a block. The storm seems to have cut a swath about 30 feet wide and our house stood squarely in the center of its path. I just can't realize that everything is gone. It was so sudden it is almost unbelievable," he added.

Two hundred and fifty children attending school escaped injury.

The tornado ripped the roof off the school building but not a single child was hurt.

The scene was described by T. J. Slay, farmer.

"I was going to take my little girl, Dorothy, home from school when the storm struck."

"After seeing it rip through the business district as if it were cardboard I knew that if the children were released from school they would all be killed by flying timbers or dashed to earth by the wind."

"With the aid of two teachers we locked the children inside the school house and snuggled them together in the rooms and hallways."

"One terrific gust of wind tore off the school house roof and every window in the building was broken. It happened so fast we scarcely knew what it was all about but a check showed not a child has been hurt."

Twenty-one persons were saved from almost certain death when they shut themselves into vaults of the two banks here.

Five took refuge in the First National Bank with John Beck and 16 crowded into the vault of the Citizens' State Bank with Rufe Shaw.

BILLION DOLLAR 10-YEAR PROGRAM BEING PREPARED

CHAIRMAN BRITTEN OF HOUSE
NAVAL AFFAIRS COMMITTEE
LEADING SPIRIT

NAVY APPROPRIATION BILL FOR
1931 ALSO TO BE REPORTED
TO HOUSE TODAY

Washington, May 7.—(UP)—The senate foreign relations committee today sought the unwritten history of the London naval treaty as Chairman Britten of the house naval affairs committee prepared a $1,000,000,000 ten-year building program to lift the American navy to parity with the British.

The navy appropriation bill for 1931 also was to be reported to the house today. It will somewhat indicate the extent to which the London conference has changed American naval building plans.

President Hoover's budget message asked $380,392,000 for the navy next year compared with the $362,061,000 appropriated for the current fiscal period. Mr. Hoover sought funds to complete modernization of the battleships Arizona and Pennsylvania and to continue or begin construction of the 15 cruisers and the aircraft carrier authorized in the 1929 naval bill.

Eight cruisers of a previous authorization have been launched and two are in commission. With the latter 15 the United States would possess 23 cruisers mounting eight-inch guns. The London treaty, however, limited America's quota of such cruisers to 18. This compulsory alteration of congress' naval building program will be a center of debate.

Senator Robinson, democrat, Arkansas, who is a committee member and was a delegate to the conference will give the senate committee the first report on the treaty. Senator Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, the other senatorial delegate, reached New York last night on his return from the conference.

Chairman Hale of the senate naval affairs committee announced hearings for last Monday but was dissuaded and will not call his committee together until Stimson has appeared before the foreign relations group. Britten says he wants treaty hearings before his house committee, too.

The naval appropriation bill is on the house calendar for Thursday and if taken up then will give that body first chance to discuss the London treaty.

Until tomorrow, however, the attention of senators was taken with the vote on Judge John J. Parker to be associate justice of the supreme court. The vote is set for 1:30 P. M.

Friends of the North Carolina republican jurist led by Republican Floor Leader Watson claimed they have sufficient votes up their sleeves to win by a tie or a single vote. The polls of the opposition led by Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, showed a possible majority of five or more votes for rejection.

Not since Cleveland's administration has the senate rejected a nomination to the supreme court. Never in the history of the senate has such a stubborn and bitter contest been staged as this feud which broke down party lines, aroused charges of patronage bribe offers and split even the administration supporters.

The patronage bribe charge is not expected to change a single vote, although some senators still believe an investigation should be authorized by the senate. They believe the senate should trace down the statement of Senator Dill, democrat, Washington, that he was offered a federal judgeship by a "gentleman" from his state. He said he did not take the offer seriously.

Senator Ashurst, democrat, Arizona, who brought the charge to light in yesterday's dramatic session of the senate, declared Dill had attempted to pass off the seriousness of the offer and did not blame him.

The Hawley-Smoot tariff bill faced an uncertain future in the senate today, the first anniversary of its birth.

The conference report on the long pending bill was to be submitted to the senate today, exactly one year from the date of its formal introduction in the house by Chairman Hawley of the house ways and means committee, one of its co-authors.

Procedure for consideration of the report was uncertain. Leaders of the various senate factions had not decided what they would do with it, or what items they would contest.

Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, will be invited to appear before the senate lobby committee in a week or ten days to answer testimony which has involved him in the financing of the anti-Smith movement in the south, Chairman Caraway announced today.

The bishop will be confronted, as soon as he returns from Texas, with the testimony of the "angel" of the anti-Smith campaign, Edwin C. Jameson, New York industrialist. Jameson said he gave $65,300 to Cannon and $50,000 to a democratic constitutional league during the last presidential campaign.

WHEN 30,000 GALLONS OF OIL BLAZE

Thirty thousand gallons of oil and gasoline fed this blaze, which destroyed the storage tanks in the plant of the Inter-Ocean Sales Corporation on the Joliet road, near Lyons, Ill. Starting on a truck, the flames spread by a series of explosions which spattered oil over a wide area to ten tanks, each of 3,000-gallon capacity. Fire companies from Chicago and surrounding towns tackled the blaze with sand and chemicals, water being useless. The loss was estimated at $250,000.

17TH MAY IS TO BE CELEBRATED

Norse Lutheran Church of Pequot
Plans Unique Observance

CHURCH IMPROVEMENT

Green Sod to be Verdant Memorial of Memorable
Day

Members of the Norse Lutheran church at Pequot are planning a rather unique celebration for the Seventeenth of May. This day is the Independence Day of Norway, and is to Norwegians what the Fourth of July is to Americans. But instead of fireworks and the usual programs connected with such celebrations, the Norse population of Pequot and vicinity plan to spend the day in hard labor. They will invade the town, not dressed up in their best clothes, but in overalls, armed with hoes, shovels, picks, plows, scrapers and what not, to level out the church lawn, to repair broken fences, and to do such other improvements on the church grounds as the committee in charge may command. The army of workers, which is expected to appear, will be under the command of a staff of officers consisting of Messrs. O. T. Olson, Albert Bragstad and Oscar F. Rodean. The mobilizing of armed forces will begin at 10 o'clock in the morning and will continue all day until victory has finally been achieved. As a last maneuver of the day, the church lawn will be seeded in, and in days to come the green sod will be a verdant memorial of this memorable day spent together in fraternal co-operation and work.

But the Independence Day celebration would not be complete unless the ladies also contributed something. And so in the true spirit of the gallant men of Eidsvold, the Minutemen of Norway, the members of the church have invited the ladies to participate in the festivities by bringing baskets filled with good things to eat. The ladies have graciously accepted the invitation and will come loaded down with egte norsk mad-lefse, fattigmand, kake, og andre gode sager. The commissariat will be in charge of Mesdames Ole Berg, Henry Larson, and R. E. Hauge, the presidents of the three Ladies Aids of the congregation—Vesterheim, Sibley and Ideal respectively.

Rev. Oscar Rem, the pastor of the church, states that this will be an unusual celebration, and will serve a dual purpose: first, the Norwegian National Independence Day will be observed,

Explaining Leap Year

Leap year is omitted every concluding year of the centuries except when the number of the year is divisible by 400.

Crow Wing County Garden Flower Society In Timely Suggestions

Encourage the children in the family to plant both flowers and vegetables. They will be able to gain much pleasure and knowledge, and the outdoor work will be beneficial to their health. The raising of vegetables of their very own, may be used successfully as a means of overcoming a prejudice against vegetables in the diet. When appetizingly prepared almost any child will enjoy the novelty of eating self-grown vegetables.

Study to get the utmost out of your plot. With some annuals and numerous sorts of vegetables, it is practical to get successive crops by sowing seeds at intervals of a week, ten days or two weeks apart. If you have been in the habit of planting all of the seed of a variety at one time, try the plan of making successive sowings with those kinds that lend themselves to this practice.

If you have sown seeds in pots or flats in the house during March or April, prepare to transplant them now. Plants usually require transplanting when they have two true leaves. You will find that by transplanting them several times, you will have much stronger plants.

Get and use plant knowledge. Two hours of systematic garden work with knowledge of the various plants will accomplish more than four hours of work done in a hit and miss fashion. Manual labor not guided with accurate knowledge of the requirements of plants, soil, etc., will not alone give satisfactory results.

Most perennials may be divided and transplanted at this time of the year. In fact, the spring of the year is the best time to transplant them in this portion of the country. Get them started early before they have made much of their root growth. Oriental poppies are one of the exceptions. These should be transplanted during the latter part of August, which is their dormant period.

If you wish to change the color of your hydrangeas and make the white variety pink, take about two tablespoonfuls of common alum and scatter it around the plant. Keep it away from the trunk. This should be done in May each year. If the treatment is stopped, the plant will again come white. Pink hydrangeas will turn blue under this treatment.

All flower bulbs, roots, etc., should be gone over carefully at this time of the year. Any of them showing disease should be burned at once. Dahlia or other fleshy bulbs which may have begun to shrivel can be "plumped up" by covering for two weeks or so with moist—not wet sand or peat moss. Then repack in dry material. This restores the moisture content naturally and renews the vitality. Bulbs that show signs of mould should be wiped off and put in a dry place with plenty of ventilation.

Discovery of Iodine
Iodine was discovered in 1812 by Courtois, a French niter manufacturer. He was boiling the ash from seaweed in copper kettles. Upon the addition of unusually strong sulphuric acid to the residue in his pots, he saw violet fumes arising from them. It was named from a Greek word meaning violet color.

17TE MAI IS TO BE CELEBRATED

Norse Lutheran Church of Pequot
Plans Unique Observance

CHURCH IMPROVEMENT

Green Sod to be Verdant Memorial
of Memorable
Day

Members of the Norse Lutheran church at Pequot are planning a rather unique celebration for the Seventeenth of May. This day is the Independence Day of Norway, and is to Norwegians what the Fourth of July is to Americans. But instead of fireworks and the usual programs connected with such celebrations, the Norse population of Pequot and vicinity plan to spend the day in hard labor. They will invade the town, not dressed up in their best clothes, but in overalls, armed with hoes, shovels, picks, plows, scrapers and what not, to level out the church lawn, to repair broken fences, and to do such other improvements on the church grounds as the committee in charge may command. The army of workers, which is expected to appear, will be under the command of a staff of officers consisting of Messrs. O. T. Olson, Albert Bragstad and Oscar F. Rodean. The mobilizing of armed forces will begin at 10 o'clock in the morning and will continue all day until victory has finally been achieved. As a last maneuver of the day, the church lawn will be seeded in, and in days to come the green sod will be a verdant memorial of this memorable day spent together in fraternal co-operation and work.

But the Independence Day celebration would not be complete unless the ladies also contributed something. And so in the true spirit of the gallant men of Eidsvold, the Minutemen of Norway, the members of the church have invited the ladies to participate in the festivities by bringing baskets filled with good things to eat. The ladies have graciously accepted the invitation and will come loaded down with egte norsk mad-lefse, fattigmand, kake, og andre gode sager. The commissariat will be in charge of Mesdames Ole Berg, Henry Larson, and R. E. Hauge, the presidents of the three Ladies' Aids of the congregation—Vesterheim, Sibley and Ideal respectively.

Rev. Oscar Rem, the pastor of the church, states that this will be an unusual celebration, and will serve a dual purpose: first, the Norwegian National Independence Day will be observed,

Explaining Leap Year

Leap year is omitted every concluding year of the centuries except when the number of the year is divisible by 400.

Crow Wing County Garden Flower Society In Timely Suggestions

Encourage the children in the family to plant both flowers and vegetables. They will be able to gain much pleasure and knowledge, and the outdoor work will be beneficial to their health. The raising of vegetables of their very own, may be used successfully as a means of overcoming a prejudice against vegetables in the diet. When appetizingly prepared almost any child will enjoy the novelty of eating self-grown vegetables.

Study to get the utmost out of your plot. With some annuals and numerous sorts of vegetables, it is practical to get successive crops by sowing seeds at intervals of a week, ten days or two weeks apart. If you have been in the habit of planting all of the seed of a variety at one time, try the plan of making successive sowings with those kinds that lend themselves to this practice.

If you have sown seeds in pots or flats in the house during March or April, prepare to transplant them now. Plants usually require transplanting when they have two true leaves. You will find that by transplanting them several times, you will have much stronger plants.

Get and use plant knowledge. Two hours of systematic garden work with

Public Urged to Beautify Roadsides

WITH Brainerd engaged in the task of cleaning up and painting up so as to furnish a bright clean picture to visitors and tourists, the movement has been extended to the state highway department, which calls especial attention to approaches to a city.

"Help us make the roadsides of the trunk highways attractive," is the substance of an appeal made by C. M. Babcock, commissioner of highways, to owners of property fronting on the trunk highways, and to civic organizations in towns located on the state routes.

"From all indications Minnesota will have more tourists this summer than ever before," Mr. Babcock states. "Nearly all of them will come over the trunk highways. They will judge the state by what they see along the roadsides. It will be well worth while to give them a good impression of the state. But it will also give our own people a greater pride in the state if they see beautiful trees and shrubbery, neat lawns, well kept houses and clean roadsides when they travel over the trunk highways on their summer trips.

"The Highway department will do its part. The maintenance men will clean away all rubbish, cut weeds, clean the ditches and do everything else they can to keep the roadsides neat and attractive. But our power extends only to the edge of the right-of-way, and to make the roadside picture a perfect picture, there is need for the cooperation of property owners and local officials.

"There are many places where automobile wrecks, tin cans and other rubbish spoil the picture. The highway entrances to some towns are anything but attractive. A little cooperative effort on the part of property owners, civic clubs and local officials, will quickly improve the situation.

"After the rubbish and eyesores are removed, the appearance can in many places be further improved by a proper planting of trees and shrubbery. Unfortunately this is a matter in which the Highway department cannot help. Our right-of-way, ranging from 33 to 50 feet from the center of the roadway, is entirely too narrow for tree planting. Trees planted too close to the road will cause drifts which will block the road in the winter. At curves and intersections they would also obscure the view and tend to cause accidents. But if planted on private property near the roadside, they will help to keep the roads open in winter and make them more attractive the year around.

"We believe roadside beautification pays. The town with neat boulevards, lawns and parks fronting on the main highways entering the municipality, will get more of the tourist's business. Business men who cater to tourists will profit by keeping their premises clean and attractive. The state as a whole will profit if visitors go home with memories of beautiful roadsides. But whether we gain financially or not, we will have the satisfaction of doing a public service by adding to the enjoyment of all who travel on the highways. The old saying, 'Cleanliness is next to godliness,' can well be applied to roadside beautification."

Some Surprises in Populations

ADVANCE reports on census of various cities contain many surprising things. St. Cloud, which confidently expected to take fourth place in Minnesota, finds itself overshadowed by Rochester and Winona. Rochester has had an exceptional growth in the last decade.

As matters now stand, Minneapolis is first, St. Paul second, Duluth third, Winona with 20,802 third, Rochester with 20,614 fifth, and St. Cloud with an estimated 20,300 sixth. Brainerd with its figure of 10,000 and over will probably take tenth place, and is ahead of Red Wing with 9,623 and Fergus Falls with 9,367.

Census Holdouts

UNLESS the Minneapolis residents who refused to give out information in the 1930 census decide to cooperate with federal census enumerators at once, their names will be turned over to the United States district attorney.

Some of the people in Minneapolis have refused to talk and give the enumerators the information they desired. They will be given another chance, and if still recalcitrant, their names will be given the census director and he will turn them over to the district attorney.

THE annual livestock judging contests by students of agriculture in the high schools of Minnesota will be held again this year at University Farm, St. Paul, on May 15, 16 and 17. The event is sponsored by the University Department of Agriculture, which will furnish the animals and equipment and act as host to the contestants.

SIX northern Minnesota counties have organized to support a move to obtain a larger congressional appropriation for development of roads to Superior and Chippewa National forest. The county officials seek $500,000 for road improvement in the forests in 1930 and 1931.

THE school teachers of America are the dryest and the law-yeers are the wettest professional groups in America, according to returns of The Literary Digest's special classified polls.

RAIN is falling nearly every day and the moisture is appreciated by the farmers as well as the people interested in the lakes. It will take a lot of moisture to cover what was lacking last year.

AN attachment to the blades of a propeller on an outboard motor which makes possible operation of a boat at a trolling speed is being manufactured in Little Falls.

A LARGE number of tourists will visit Yellowstone National Park this year on tours sponsored by farm publications and foreign language newspapers of the east and middlewest.

THE Norwegian societies or lagets will meet at Minneapolis June 10 to 12, and the meeting will be followed by the Norwegian Sangerfest from June 12 to 15.

THE first of the summer tourist rates on the Northern Pacific railway will become effective on May 15.

"SHEIK'S WIFE"

BY WINIFRED VAN DUZER

DESPITE the warnings of her friend, Mary, young and unsophisticated Eve Reade marries Ken Wilmer, well known artist. Eve hopes to become accustomed to the unconventional ways of Ken's artist associates in The Lane. She has a staunch friend in Nory O'Rell, the author. Ken and Eve spend their honeymoon at Eve's uncle's home. They meet Puss Southwick, who asks permission to visit Ken's studio some time. Ken becomes restless and they return home.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XX.

AFTER all she was glad to be home. They went at once to the bungalow and Ken was all for rushing out and engaging Emma Schmidt, the niece of old Herman, to put the place in order.

But Eve could not bear the thought of even a maid sharing their first few days here. Besides, as she told Ken, she would have plenty of time and she liked housework and it would be fun to make her own arrangements.

He submitted finally though with some grumbling, maintaining that everything should be exactly as she wished always.

Nevertheless when he found her next morning gathering up ragged piles of correspondence, notes, catalogues, even contracts, from tables and chairs in the living room, and digging out a stack of unfinished sketches from beneath the divan, he looked dismayed.

"What's the use of doing that?" he asked and surprise sharpened his voice. "Nobody's fussy around here."

Eve had been toiling nearly three hours; she had skinned her knuckles and bruised her knees, and dust had got into her eyes and into her throat, and she could make out a smudge by looking down her nose.

She was tired and her head ached and romance seemed dim and far away at this moment when Ken stood there peering about, scowling at the disorder she had struggled with so gallantly.

It was too much; she sank down on the rug, put her arms on her knees and her head on her arms. "Oh, Ken," she sobbed. "You don't love me! I know this—that you don't love me any more."

Ken listened in stunned silence; only when his wife's sobs grew hysterical did he gather her in his arms, making frantic denial of whatever charges stood against him, though what these might be was not at all clear.

"But what have I done, sweetheart? What have I said? Only that nobody fusses around here." "There, now y-you're s-saying that a-again! Y-you'd not want me to l-live in such a t-terribly dirty p-place if y-you l-loved me."

"But sweetheart, I don't quite see—" Lifting his head with a harassed look, the boy slid two fingers into the front of his collar and gave it a jerk that sent the button shooting across the room. "Of course, I love you! I adore everything about you!"

It seemed to be the right note for she quieted and he kissed the smudge on her nose, kissed her dust-grimed fingers one at a time; gathered them up and kissed them all at once. And finally her sobs turned into shivers and the shivers into gulps and then she was merely tearful.

"Ken," she told him at last, "I just can't stand such disorder. Even if they don't fuss, folks like Fifi and Ivy and Jan, I just can't stand it. I'm afraid you'll not like this, Ken, that I'm a little prim around the house."

"Shucks, red-head—well, shucks, you funny darling, haven't I always wanted a prim wife? Kiss Ken—he's not a stingy kiss—h-m, that's better. But she's not to wear herself out, understand? Went and got herself all tired—that's what's the matter. And now Ken's going to boil her up a nice mess of coffee with maybe a dash of you-know-what to give it pep."

It was the first of the adjustments to each other's alien standards they always seemed to be making. Sometimes it would be Ken who would apologize abjectly for he did not know what in order to bring his wife out of the terrified conviction that he no longer loved her.

But usually it was the artist's established manners and customs and who felt herself bound to make him understand how innocent was her intent and how profound her regret.

And after a time Eve began to look very carefully before she took a step, anxious to save wounded feelings. And she learned also to keep silence when her own elbows were joggled. Ken meant so well—and was so thoughtless—boyishly, exuberantly thoughtless—big kid that he was. She wondered if all wives didn't have to mother their husbands a bit.

One by one she gave up a great many of the notions she always had considered died in the wool of her character. Spick and span apple-pie order in her home was about the first to go for she soon saw that what was considered good housekeeping in Lakeview, Connecticut, would be impossible in The Lane.

For one thing Ken was always upsetting ash trays and he looked so stricken the first time she ran for the broom that when next it happened she merely kicked the spilled cigarette ends under the table and crept in to clear them away later, sneaking a bit so he would not see.

Another cause of trouble was the nonchalant untidiness of the tribe, some of whom always were dropping in. They would put their feet on chairs, rest their cigarettes on the edge of the piano till the varnish scorched with a horrible odor, trace rings on nicely polished table tops with their wet glasses and act as if the house were a club room.

Eve pretended she did not mind. She did mind, dreadfully, but she was not going to let Ken know this.

"Play the game," she kept telling herself, using the tribe's familiar phrase. "Do this for Ken—because I love Ken; learn all the rules—play the game."

But it was hard to see ashes ground into the really beautiful rugs without wincing; many times after Ken was asleep Eve would go about downstairs with her brush and dust-pan and oiled polishing cloth, trying to repair the ravages of The Lane's sociability.

It was not all adjustment, however, this life of the Wilmers. There were days when Eve posed for Ken, out in the orchard, perhaps, where birds sang and sunlight struck down the leaves and made clever shadows on her slender, white-clad figure.

There were days—though these were rare for Ken could not often leave his work—when Eve would coax him away from The Lane altogether and they would fare forth on picnics, driving away and away till they found some mountain solitude where they would spread their lunch and afterward loaf through long, sunny hours recapturing the romance they had found on Mount Thor.

There were quiet, sweet evenings with the Stewarts, Eve finding Mary and Jimmy very satisfying after the nervous restlessness of artists and writers though Ken, she knew, was less happy with them. Mary was busily fitting up a nursery now and sewing long, fine seams and Eve shared her thrilled anticipation.

But she tried to keep her interest to what interested Ken and this was first his work and then, perhaps because they were in a way connected with his work, The Lane people.

It was to please Ken that Eve said they must have a housewarming and she felt rewarded for all the trouble it would be by his enthusiasm.

"Gosh, that's an idea! You round up sandwiches and I'll get the you-know-what."

"Do we need liquor, Ken? I thought we'd make it just a nice party."

"How could it be nice without something to drink? Gin anyway. Might even get some good old pre-war Bourbon, though it's kind of steep."

He looked at her hopefully, but she said not a word. Eve had been trying to arouse in her husband some respect for thrift, carrying on her campaign tactfully but firmly. He lived up to the very edge of what she considered a magnificent salary—sometimes, indeed he slipped far over the edge—and her New England training saw this as shocking if not actually sinful.

"Well, gin's probably enough," he concluded, making the best of things. "Why not have hot dogs? The gang likes hot dogs."

"Oh, Ken! I did want a nice party, not just harum-scarum. Never mind all this; I'll take care of things."

So he left it to her. And Eve, remembering the parties at Lakeview, set to work to plan. She would have a beautiful dinner with favors and a floral center sent up from New York. Engraved invitations—something really worth while—she thought of all these things and went about arrangements, even buying place cards and paying more than she considered wise.

She had put the party ahead a week to give herself plenty of time, but within two days as she went through The Lane everybody was hailing her, crying acceptance. But how did they know? And now that they seemed to have found out what use would there be in sending out invitations when everybody was coming anyway whether asked or not?

Eve was going over to the clubhouse to engage Herman's niece to help with the dinner. And now she stepped into the lounge and came face to face with the answer to the riddle. It was tacked to the bulletin board, a great white square, all lettered in Ken's best style. "Come One—Come All," it began and invited everybody to make whoopee with Eve and Ken Wilmer next Thursday night.

Young Mrs. Wilmer read the thing to the end and then went away without speaking about Emma Schmidt.

She had wanted something a little better than noise for their housewarming. But if Ken wished this... play the game... play the game...

She felt rather tired, rather as if she were going to cry as she crossed the veranda, went into Ken's studio.

BRAINERD, LITTLE FALLS CONDUCT DUAL MEET SATURDAY

EASTERN TEAMS IN 5-GAME LEAD OVER WESTERNERS

EVENTS START OFF THREE TRACK, FIELD MEETS DOWNRIVER

FIRST MEET TO FIND TWO LEADING SCORERS IN AITKIN MEET COMPETING

DIAMONDBALL GAME TO FOLLOW; DISTRICT, REGIONAL TOURNEYS SCHEDULED

Braierd track and field men are having their busiest season in history. Last Saturday the Washington high school representatives came out best at the Third Annual Invitational Meet, scoring 37 points. Little Falls took second place with 33 3-5 points.

Saturday, May 10, 16 Braierd athletes will journey to Little Falls to compete with the downriver school in a dual track and field meet in 13 events.

The track and field events which start at 1:30 P. M. will be followed by a diamondball game between the two schools.

The dual meet and diamondball games come as two new combinations between the two schools.

Two follow-up meets will be scheduled at the Little Falls track and field grounds the following successive Saturdays.

On May 17 the district meet is scheduled with all teams in the district competing.

On May 24 the regional meet will take place with the first two winners in each district competing.

Elimination of teams as in basketball race will be conducted in the district and regional meets.

The region will embrace representative teams from the territory including Pine River at the north, Montevideo to the south, Alexandria and Wadena to the west, Aitkin to the east and Buffalo to the southeast.

The dual meet will permit the Braierd and Little Falls athletes to gauge their strength for the following meets.

Since Braierd displayed greatest strength in field events at Aitkin while Little Falls was strong in track, second and third place winners may decide the meet. Coach Warren Kasch is concentrating on proper balancing of teams with this in consideration. Trials are being held daily in Gregory Park.

CHICAGO STADIUM ABANDONS VON PORAT GRIFFITH HEAVY BOUT

Chicago, May 7.—(U.P.)—Chicago stadium officials today had abandoned all negotiations for the proposed heavyweight bout between Otto Von Porat, Norway's title contender, and Tuffy Griffith, Sioux City, Iowa, slugger.

Preliminary arrangements for the bout were made several weeks ago and May 26 was selected as the date. Since his last appearance here, in which he defeated Jack Gagnon of Philadelphia, Griffith has declined to go through with the match, the promoters said.

Several other heavyweights are under consideration as Von Porat's opponent on May 28, it was announced.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 7.—(U.P.)—Les Mariner, 190, of Chicago, knocked out Jack League, 196, San Antonio, Tex., in the fifth round of a scheduled 10-round bout last night.

PURNELL HITS TWO HOMERS, BASES FULL, IN A SINGLE INNING

Princeton, N. J., May 7.—(U.P.)—Stanley Purnell of Baltimore, second baseman on the Princeton freshman baseball team, today occupied a niche in baseball hall of fame with a record of having hit two home runs in a single inning, with the bases filled each time—a stunt which never has been performed in organized baseball.

Purnell's eight runs driven in a single inning is two runs above the major league record of 6 runs driven in, held by Fred Merkle, one-time New York Giants star.

SINCLAIRS DEFEAT MESCHKE'S, 16-15

Playing before the largest attendance of the season, the Sinclair Oil Co. last evening handed Meschke's Grocery their first loss in the city diamondball league race by a score of 16 to 15. The game proved to be a free-hitting affair which furnished the fans with plenty of thrills. The victory sent the Sinclair Oil Co. into a triple tie for second place with Bye Clothing Co. and Meschke's Grocery, leaving J. C. Penney Co., in undisputed first place.

Meschke's were retired in the first half of the first inning. J. Heikkinen drew a walk, Meschke, the next man up, hit into a well-executed double play. The Oilers counted five runs on six hits in their half of the inning. Olson, leading off, greeted Johnson with a long home run. Wise doubled. Thompson singled scoring Wise. Loom hit a home run scoring Thompson ahead of him. Blanck singled and tallied on Bernard's triple.

The "Frogowners" came back in the second inning to score seven runs and resume the lead. Fogelstrom doubled. W. Heikkinen and E. Heikkinen walked, filling the bases. E. Johnson cleared the bags with a lusty triple and only fast fielding prevented it from being a homer. L. Johnson scored his brother with a single to left field. J. Heikkinen drew his second pass and Meschke doubled down first base line to send Johnson and Heikkinen home. Meschke counted on Erickson's single.

The Oilers scored four runs in the third when Thompson received a free ticket. Loom doubled to score Thompson. Welsh doubled and Loom crossed the plate. Blanck drew a pass and Bernard tripled to put two more runs across. The Oilers continued their hitting spree in the fourth. Olson and Nutting singled and dented the plate on Thompson's triple, who in turn tallied on Loom's double. Welsh doubled to score Loom and Blanck singled to tally Welsh. Bernard was safe on an error. Blanck going to third. Fitzsimmons was safe on another error with Bernard and Blanck scoring.

Going to bat with the score 16 to 7 against them, Meschke's Grocery were not discouraged and came back in the fifth inning to score seven runs. Johnson doubled, then J. Heikkinen hit a home run, Fogelstrom, W. Heikkinen and E. Heikkinen hit successive doubles. Schwindeman drew a pass, and Poster and Johnson singled, all of which resulted in seven runs.

Meschke's Grocery counted their final run in the first half of the sixth when Erickson hit a home run.

ATHLETICS AND CHICAGO CUBS HAVE BEEN LEADERS IN INTERSECTIONAL PLAY

(By United Press)
Eastern teams today held a 5-game advantage over rivals from the west as major ball clubs prepared to close their first week of intersectional competition.

Western clubs are trailing in both leagues, with eight wins in the American. The Philadelphia Athletics and Chicago Cubs have been leaders in intersectional competition.

Eastern teams won 5 of the 7 games played yesterday. Chicago's Cubs broke Brooklyn's 7-game winning streak for the west's only National League victory.

In beating the Robins, 3 to 1, the Cubs conquered their ancient Nemesis—Dazzy Vance. Babe Herman homered for the Robins, but the Cubs promptly took the lead on English's triple. Wilson's homer and singles by Cuyler and Grimm.

A four-run attack in the fifth gave the Chicago White Sox a 4 to 3 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

Rube Walberg outpitched Sam Gray to give the Philadelphia Athletics a 4 to 1 advantage over the St. Louis Browns. Jimmy Fox's homer with Simmons on base produced the winning runs.

Home runs by Eddie Morgan and Bob Seeds enabled the Cleveland Indians to defeat the New York Yankees, 7 to 6. Earl Combs gave the Yanks the first score of the game with a homer in the first.

The New York Giants held the National League lead and dropped Pittsburgh to third place, defeating the Pirates 11 to 9. Homers by Terry, Crawford, Reese and Leach produced seven of the Giants' scores.

The Washington Senators ended a three-game losing streak, defeating the Detroit Tigers, 5 to 4. Harry Seibold turned in his fourth victory in five complete games for the Boston Braves, defeating the Cincinnati Reds, 4 to 3.

lowed Indianapolis six runs to win the opener with Minneapolis, 7 to 2. The Kels got eight hits off Brillheart, to the Indians' nine off Brillheart.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 7.—The Toledo Mudhens batted four pitchers for 17 hits to win the opener from the Milwaukee Brewers, 12 to 3. It was the Brewers' fourth straight defeat. Wilson led the Hens' onslaught while Wingard was effective in the pinches.

St. Paul, Minn., May 7.—Polli, a former St. Paul hurler, bowed to the Saints who got to their former team mate for six runs in the first two innings with Louisville before he was replaced by Penner. The game was called in the first half of the seventh because of rain, with the score 7 to 1.

Kansas City, Mo., May 7.—The Columbus-Kansas City American Association game was postponed because of rain here yesterday.

Rolls Sheet Iron Old

Production of rolled sheet iron dates back before 1620 in Bohemia. It was introduced into Wales in 1729.

"The MOST STUPENDOUS ACT EVER PERFORMED, FOLKS," shouted Ballyhoo Bertram

"Step inside and see Professor Szumka swallow a three foot sword. It's a marvelous feat, folks."

"Oh! Daddy!" whispered little Willie Woggle. "That man must have a strong throat to do that."

"Yes, Son," answered William Woggle, Sr. "No doubt the professor smokes OLD GOLDS. No harm can touch a throat protected by them." Not a cough in a carload.

WOMAN LEADS FOR GOVERNOR IN SOUTH DAKOTA

MISS GLADYS PYLE OF HURON HAS LEAD OF NEARLY 2,000 VOTES

TWO-THIRDS OF STATE'S 1,918
PRECINCTS HAVE BEEN HEARD FROM

Pierre, S. D., May 7.—(U.P.)—A woman who entered politics more than ten years ago for a career today was leading four men, including a former governor, for the republican nomination as governor of South Dakota.

Miss Gladys Pyle, Huron, secretary of state, had a lead of nearly 2,000 over former Governor Carl Gunderson, Mitchell, on the basis of returns from nearly two-thirds of the state's 1,918 precincts.

Returns from 1,036 precincts out of 1,918 gave Miss Pyle 21,238 votes against 12,484 for Gunderson, 15,997 for Broke Howell, Fredrick, 14,255 for Carlo Trygstad, Brookings, and 6,855 for Warren E. Green, Hazel.

Although Miss Pyle was leading in returns, her nomination was not yet assured. Unless the final totals show she has 35 per cent of the republican votes cast, her political fate will rest with the party's state convention at Pierre on May 20. The state law provides that unless one candidate receives the specified percentage of votes, the convention delegates shall select the nominee.

Each delegate is free to cast the proportion of votes polled by his district in the last election for any of the candidates running in the primary.

Miss Pyle, who was born in Huron, S. D., 39 years ago, has served in the state legislature for two terms, three and a half years as assistant secretary of state and two terms in her present office.

James McNamara, fellow townsman of Miss Pyle, had a substantial majority in his race with L. E. Corey, Wakner, for the democratic gubernatorial nomination. In early returns 688 precincts gave McNamara 5,500 votes while Corey had 4,062.

Senator William H. McMaster, independent republican, was conceded the winner of the republican nomination by George J. Danforth, who appealed to voters on the stand that McMaster had not supported the president's wishes in the controversy between the democratic-independent western republican coalition and the regular republicans over the tariff bill. In the face of a 7,000 majority for McMaster with less than a third of the precincts out, Danforth conceded the election. Figures of 1,240 precincts gave McMaster 48,367 and Danforth 41,307.

Governor W. J. Bulow appeared to have obtained the democratic senatorial nomination and probably will oppose Senator McMaster.

Unofficial returns from 229 precincts gave Bulow 2,922 and McNamara 907.

BRAINERD 25 YEARS AGO

From the Daily Dispatch.

May 7, 1905

Hon. F. B. Lynch of St. Paul has decided to build some cottages on the east shore of Gull Lake and it is more than likely that there will be quite an exodus of people to this lake this summer from the Twin Cities.

While the wind and the raising of the levels in some of the lakes in northern Minnesota may have resulted in some damage, generally speaking the last few days have been good ones for the logging industry. The heavy rains resulted in a steady rise in the rivers and the lakes and the old Mississippi is now black with logs going down.

M. Derocher, Jr., has been made manager of the Cudahy company branch office in this city. He is well known here, having lived here all his life.

The Brainerd first team played a game of ball with the Little Falls team yesterday afternoon at the latter place and lost by a score of 9 to 1. Mattson was in the box for the locals and it is said he pitched good ball but his support was of the ragged variety.

Mrs. A. K. Luken was given a pleasant surprise on Friday evening, the event of her birthday anniversary.

The little seven year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Chord broke her jaw this morning while playing with some of her companions. She was riding in a wheelbarrow which was unintentionally capsized and she fell to the ground with considerable force.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Gemmell will be pleased to learn that a boy was born to them at St. Paul on Saturday.

The 500 club was entertained delightfully at the home of Mrs. G. W. Ames on Saturday afternoon by Mrs. Ames and Mrs. N. H. Ingersoll. Mrs. Charles Hazen of Duluth won the prize.

Monarch and Minister Both Soldiers at Heart

I have said that Louis was military; from the childhood when he ranged little toy silver regiments and harnessed toy guns to dogs, to the last great day before Perpignan. I have said that Richelieu was essentially a commander. Well, the two men having this one capital national quality in common, though very differently exercised in each, were linked by it. They were both, at heart, soldiers.

Louis XIII would never have made a good general officer; Richelieu would not only have made one of the best general officers in history, but did in practice act as a general officer of the highest talent; and if he had been called emperor instead of cardinal, the whole world would see it.

Louis XIII could never have swept over a mass of detail with his eye, choosing the exact instant in which to plant the blow, to fall on the defensive, or to retire, organize, and triumph through organization. He could not ever have handled great numbers of men.

Richelieu had all those qualities. But both men differing so vastly in the degree of their military talent, were military to the core, and therein is found the true point of contact between them.—From "Richelieu," by Hilaire Belloc.

Uniformity in Spelling Making Slow Progress

Of all the hundreds of languages in the world Spanish is recognized as the most perfect phonetic. The Italian tongue is a close second. This is why these tongues are among the easiest for foreigners to learn. The French academy has made some progress toward a uniform spelling of French, but the system is yet far from perfect.

When it is remembered that even Shakespeare spelled his own name in 30 different ways, it is not hard to sympathize with foreigners and elementary pupils in our own schools who face the difficulties of mastering the multitudinous forms of spelling.

Perhaps some time a uniform system may be adopted by English-speaking peoples, but it will not be soon.—Kansas City Star.

Early American Glass

The first industrial enterprise in the United States was a glass bottle factory erected in the Virginia colony soon after 1607. It was located in the woods about a mile distant from Jamestown. Window glass was manufactured in what is believed to be the first glass factory in New Jersey. It was built about 1730, a mile east of Allowaytown, Salem county, by Caspar Wistar.

Monarch and Minister Both Soldiers at Heart

I have said that Louis was military; from the childhood when he ranged little toy silver regiments and harnessed toy guns to dogs, to the last great day before Perpignan. I have said that Richelieu was essentially a commander. Well, the two men having this one capital national quality in common, though very differently exercised in each, were linked by it. They were both, at heart, soldiers.

Louis XIII would never have made a good general officer; Richelieu would not only have made one of the best general officers in history, but did in practice act as a general officer of the highest talent; and if he had been called emperor instead of cardinal, the whole world would see it.

Louis XIII could never have swept over a mass of detail with his eye, choosing the exact instant in which to plant the blow, to fall on the defensive, or to retire, organize, and triumph through organization. He could not ever have handled great numbers of men.

Richelieu had all those qualities. But both men differing so vastly in the degree of their military talent, were military to the core, and therein is found the true point of contact between them.—From "Richelieu," by Hilaire Belloc.

Uniformity in Spelling

Making Slow Progress

Of all the hundreds of languages in the world Spanish is recognized as the most perfect phonetic. The Italian tongue is a close second. This is why these tongues are among the easiest for foreigners to learn. The French academy has made some progress toward a uniform spelling of French, but the system is yet far from perfect.

When it is remembered that even Shakespeare spelled his own name in 30 different ways, it is not hard to sympathize with foreigners and elementary pupils in our own schools who face the difficulties of mastering the multitudinous forms of spelling.

Perhaps some time a uniform system may be adopted by English-speaking peoples, but it will not be soon.—Kansas City Star.

Early American Glass

The first industrial enterprise in the United States was a glass bottle factory erected in the Virginia colony soon after 1607. It was located in the woods about a mile distant from Jamestown. Window glass was manufactured in what is believed to be the first glass factory in New Jersey. It was built about 1730, a mile east of Allowaytown, Salem county, by Caspar Wistar.

Beat Chrysler performance?

You can't even tie it!

THE MOMENT you take the wheel of a Chrysler you sense a difference. You can't quite define it—but it's a combination of silence, swiftness, nimbleness and remarkable braking control.

The car seems to want to go. You're off and away like a flash. You feel that you and the car are one. You can do the difficult with ease—negotiate corners, turns, sudden stops and tight places. You overtake other cars, whip around them—without fuss, hustle or bustle.

It is the thrill that Chrysler gives in performance—the unique way it rides, drives and feels—that inspires a pride of possession all its own. You ought to drive a Chrysler.

CHORAL, PIANO RECITAL PLEASING

Under Joint Direction Miss Effie Drexler and Mrs. W. A. M. Johnstone

AT ELKS TEMPLE

Monday Evening's Function One of Most Brilliant of Musical Season

The choral and piano recital given at Elks Temple Monday evening under the joint direction of Mrs. W. A. M. Johnstone and Miss Effie Drexler, assisted by Mrs. Louis Knudsen, accompanist, was one of the most brilliant affairs of the musical season.

Flowers and ferns, donated by the Up-Town Flower Shop, chairs and floor lamp from the Patek Furniture Co., with candles, table lamp and bouquet receptacles from the Mary-Elizabeth shop, all arranged by the deft hand of its owner, Mrs. C. W. Hoffman, combined to give the hall a festive air and helped make the occasion a notable one.

Among the notables in the audience, were two members of the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra who came up to do honor to their talented Pequot accompanist, Miss Bernice LeMire.

The Choral club were in gay attire of flowered chiffon and their first number was appropriately called "Salutation," a charming greeting, by Gaines. Then came a group of three numbers by Schumann which might be called descriptive pieces, since they were given with such true appreciation of the spirit of the song. The first, "Gypsy Life," was given with verve and abandon. "Träumerei" was given such a delicate, elusive interpretation as to make it seem the very stuff that dreams are made of and "Hunting Song" was not only spirited, but one could feel the excitement of preparation, see the start of the hunt and the gradually disappearing huntsmen. The balance of voices in this number was particularly good.

Of the two numbers by Mendelssohn that completed this group—"On Music's Wing" and "Ride of the Elves," the execution of the former was perhaps the most remarkable thing done. Although every voice was heard, the blending was so delicate and the shading so expert that it seemed like the flutter of a butterfly's wing.

The thought given to variety and balance of program was exemplified by the next two numbers by Miss Edyth Brandt. These were Liszt's lovely concert Etude in D flat and the famous and difficult Revolutionary Etude, by Chopin. Miss Brandt was greeted with warm applause and her playing showed much growth in musical understanding and greater technical skill than on her last appearance in Brainerd. The Liszt number was particularly well done, the singing melody being well suited to her sensitive touch.

The Choral club followed with three charming morceaux—"La Serenata," by Toschi which was soft and melodious enough to lull my lady into dreamless slumber, "A Banjo Song," by Homer, which started off lively and ended in blended chords of harmony, and "Flower of Dreams," by Clokey, added more lovely blending, with organ effects.

The first part of the program closed with the first movement of the notable Arensky Concerto, by Bernice LeMire, with the orchestral parts taken on a second piano, by Miss Brandt. Miss LeMire was greeted with hearty applause, which was still warmer after her splendid performance of this number. Not since the appearance of F. Gerald Smith, has a pianist showed such power and precision, and her runs had the smoothness of rippling water.

The second part of the program was opened by the Choral club with two favorites—"By the Waters of Minnetonka," by Lieurance, and Ethelbert Nevin's "Venetian Love Song." Variety and charm were added to these numbers by the violin obligatos played so acceptably by the Misses, Georgia Drexler and Geraldine Kiebler.

Bernice LeMire then played a big number consisting of Chopin's "Aeolian Harp," "Butterfly" and "Black Key" etudes, the last number being done particularly well. This group closed with the brilliant Intermezzo in Octaves by Leschetizky, to the execution of which Miss LeMire's long, flexible fingers and powerful wrists are especially well adapted.

The Choral club's closing number was a delightful group, the second number of which "The Night Has a Thousand Eyes," by Rogers, being sung without accompaniment. The work of the altos in this number was particularly effective.

An occasional number sung without accompaniment adds variety, and serves to call attention to the importance of the accompaniment, and the skill of the accompanist. Every member of the Choral club recognizes the skill and the unselfish service of their accompanist—Mrs. Louis Knudsen—as well as the rare musical talent and qualities of leadership of their director—Miss Effie Drexler.

The program closed with the Chaminade Concerto, Op. 40, by Edyth Brandt, with Bernice LeMire taking the second piano. This is the one and only concerto by this talented woman composer, and is quite unique in its musical pattern. The melody running through it seems oriental in character. Miss Brandt brought the melody out very clearly and brought to a brilliant close this delightful program.

The performance of Miss Brandt and Miss LeMire adds new laurels to the fame of Mrs. W. A. M. Johnstone as a piano teacher.

ALLOWANCE CUTS MADE BY BOARD

Better Times Come to Number of Needy Families; Auditorium Secured for Conference

Better times for a number of previously needy families securing aid have resulted in three county allowances being cut off and several cuts made in others, Miss Rebecca Cassell, secretary of the County Child Welfare Board, reported in the Board's report for the month of April.

These cuts have been made due to changes in family circumstances," the report stated.

Securing of the use of the Washington high school auditorium for the evening meeting of the welfare workers conference here June 6 was also announced.

The high school pep band under the direction of Roy LaMetter will open the meeting with several selections. Other musical features of the evening will be piano solos by Mrs. C. F. Kiltinger.

POINTS OUT WASTE OF OLD SPARK PLUGS

Champion Chief Executive Says Gasoline, Oil and Power Are Lost

The automobile owner who realizes anything of the actual money saving through keeping his car always in good condition wouldn't think of driving with a retarded spark, points out R. A. Stranahan, president of the Champion Spark Plug Co., in an interview on national change week, May 5-11.

"If his gasoline station charged him 10, 20 or 25 percent more than his neighbor pays he would soon see about it. He wouldn't drive with a leak in his gasoline tank. If he discovered one he would rush to a repair shop at the earliest possible moment.

"Yet, if your spark plugs have been used more than 10,000 miles you are, in effect, driving with the spark retarded. You may really be paying 10, 20 or 25 percent more for gasoline and oil than your neighbor who has installed new spark plugs recently. And while your gasoline tank is not actually leaking, if you are using old spark plugs you are shooting good power into the air through your exhaust pipe in the form of unburned or only partially burned gas.

"This is true, regardless of the type of spark plugs you may be using, or regardless of how well made they may be."

"Yes, I used to suffer awfully from GAS until I took

SMOKE PIPE OF PEACE AT WALKER

Signing of Indian Peace Treaty of 45 Years Ago to be Celebrated

ON JUNE 18, 19 AND 20

Picturesque Ceremonies to Draw Many to District Legion Convention

Indians of two tribes, the Sioux and Chippewa, over 1,500 in number and a large number of these decked out in picturesque costume will celebrate the signing of the peace treaty 45 years ago as one of a number of features of the district convention of American Legion posts of 51 cities and towns of the Sixth district at Walker on June 18, 19, and 20.

While tomahawks have been buried for many years now and scalping is a thing of the past of these civilized tribes, war paint will be donned again, feathers will drape down the backs of the braves, and shrill whoops will be heard as the Indians put on a pageant of early days depicting their habits and customs.

A taste of what the Indian ceremonies will be like was given Brainerd yesterday with the appearance here of two Indians of prominence, Chief Ne-Guna-Quened, meaning "Lead Bird" and his son, Windogobo, meaning "Big Wind."

Both Indians wore Indian ensembles of beads, of every color in the rainbow, were artistically sewed to their garments from head to foot while a trailing deer tail headdress crowned by eagle feathers heightened the picture. The two looked as if they had stepped out of a story book.

But there was more to the Indians than just the gay feathers and blooms but in this connection it was interesting to learn that the Chief's apparel required the services of one of the princesses of the tribe eight months to complete.

Chief "Lead Bird" is 90 years old and is the oldest living person on the Walker reservation. He has lived there all his life and knows every trail, every lake where the big fish bite and knows the early history of the north country. He knows all this and more if his stoic and austere nature can be penetrated.

His son, "Big Wind," is a member of the Legion Post at Walker and the members point to him as one of their great men. Windogobo was a member of the 359th infantry in the World War and came through battles in the Argonne Forest and St. Mihiel half shot up. He was splattered with shrapnel while on a scouting expedition in the Argonne Forest and the marks of those cover his back. One wound is ten inches long and six inches wide.

The two were here with A. T. Gilbertson, district commander of the Legion, Dalmire and W. J. McGarry, Arthur Rellaire and F. J. Kinkle of the William Coussé Spencer Post No. 131, Walker, host to the convention.

They were returning to their homes from the sub district Legion rally at Sauk Centre held Monday evening where invitations were extended to all members to attend the district meet.

Indian games as played by the early tribes including nobby, a form of lacrosse, canoe races and a large powwow will be part of the program put on by Indians under direction of Edward Barbeau of Hackensack.

Brainerd's contribution to the entertainment will be music by the Legion Auxiliary band.

Other attractions at the convention will include outdoor motor races, a fish fry to feed 1,000 people, dancing every evening, baseball games, 600 musicians with bands, drum corps, etc., and a golf tournament at the newly opened Tianno Country club nine hole grass greens course.

State Commander Earle Cliff and State Adjutant Eddie Lindell will bring a large party to Walker and Leech Lake to fish the day before the convention opens. Any who desire to join the party are requested to communicate with Glen Otis, post commander at Walker.

All water sports of the convention will be held at Leech Lake.

LINCOLN P. T. A. TO WIND UP BUSINESS

Last Meeting of School Year to be Held This Evening; Elect Officers

Winding up of business for the school year election of officers for the ensuing year so that they might plan work for the reopening next fall, will take place at the last meeting of the season of the Lincoln P. T. A. this evening at the school, Mayor F. E. Little, president of the association announced today.

The nominating committee will report to the association the new officers selected for approval and an interesting program has been arranged under the direction of Mrs. S. Newman.

CHAMPIONS outperform in every engine

WE know from our own experience that new spark plugs once a year save their cost in gas and oil alone, restore new car power, speed and acceleration, and avert many otherwise costly repair bills. All motor car manufacturers recommend this yearly change. We will gladly give FREE spark plug inspection service all this week—and, if necessary, install new Champions for you. For Champions are the better spark plugs for every engine. That's why we always recommend them. Bring your car to us at your earliest opportunity. It means better performance to you at less cost for the year to come.

DEFECTIVE TEETH REMAIN PROBLEM

County Nurse Tells of Ills Resulting; 502 Ill Health Corrections Made in Pupils

Defective teeth still remain a great problem in Crow Wing county, Miss Caroline Walz, county nurse states in her report for the month of April.

"Decayed teeth and dirty mouths may result in many ailments, such as headaches, colds, skin troubles, abscesses, boils, nervousness, neuralgia, neuritis, rheumatism, and heart trouble. Visit your dentist every six months. Brush your teeth on rising and after each meal and before going to bed. Clean your tongue as well. Have all fissures and cavities filled as soon as discovered. Eat and crooked teeth straightened. Eat and give your child proper food for teeth development. Do not let your child suck his fingers, rubber nipples, or pacifiers. Guard his baby teeth as though they were permanent," she writes.

School inspections were completed this month. A total of 192 pupils were given a physical inspection during the present school year. Corrections made totaled 502, this being an increase of 45 percent over the previous year's correction.

Last month 62 homes were visited and a total of 111 visits made, including nursing, instruction, communicable disease and business calls.

The report continues:

Educational
Three mothercraft classes were organized with an enrollment of 26 girls. Six meetings were held. 176 pieces of health literature were distributed. Two meetings were attended and a talk given at one.

A day and a half was spent in attending a public health nurse's conference at Minneapolis.

Clinics
Assistance was rendered at two tuberculosis clinics. Seventeen people were examined.

Two life extension clinics were held. These examinations were given the high school girls of Riverton and Pequot. 58 girls took advantage of this very splendid opportunity.

Special Cases
An old man was accompanied to and from the local hospital. Three patients were taken to the doctor's office.

One patient was taken to the Deerwood sanatorium.

PRETTY COSTUMES TO BE SEEN IN BALLET

Beautiful children's costumes will form colorful scenes in "The Ballet of Coppelia" to be given at the high school auditorium on Friday evening, May 9.

The costumes which are all made of satin, velvet and tulle, are in both delicate and brilliant shades.

This ballet was obtained in Paris by Miss Anita Hartzberg of the Helen Noble School of Dancing, Minneapolis, who is here to direct it. It promises to be an interesting and beautiful entertainment.

A group of high school girls will do a tap dance. They will be attired in red satin trousers and white blouses. The baby doll dresses which will be worn by a group of smaller children four and five years old, were designed by Gene Hitch of Minneapolis.

The "Ballet of Coppelia" is being given for the building fund of the St. Paul Episcopal church. It will also be given at Crosby Saturday evening, May 10.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our friends, neighbors, relatives, and the Sisters of St. Joseph's hospital for their kindness and aid during the illness and death of our beloved wife, daughter and sister. Also to the ladies who decorated the church, to Miss Peterson and Mrs. McCulloch for the music and singing at the funeral, and for the many floral offerings do we wish to express our heartfelt thanks.

Even "dyed-in-the-wool" oil engineers get a thrill out of this test . . .

IT is a simple experiment, but the dramatic results excite even oil experts themselves.

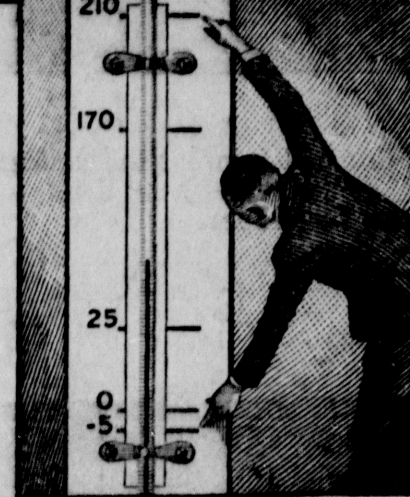

A quart of "used" New Iso-Vis, black with the usual crankcase dirt, is drained from a car after many hundreds of miles of driving. Five minutes later we have a quart of oil that might have come straight from the refinery. It has the clear amber color. The same heavy body.

Yet it is exactly the same quart of oil that was just taken from the crankcase!

What has happened is simply that a special clay filter has removed the dust and dirt. This is one of the many tests that prove beyond question that New Iso-Vis will not thin out in the crankcase.

New Iso-Vis has other important advantages. It brings a radical reduction of carbon deposit. And it gives lubrication over a wider range of temperatures. This important combination of qualities means less wear and longer life for your engine.

New Iso-Vis Motor Oil is on sale at all Standard Oil dealers and service stations.

THE LONG lubricating range of New Iso-Vis covers the whole thermometer. Some oils are defeated by heat—others by cold. New Iso-Vis fights friction at both extremes.

New Polarine is also affected by our new refining process giving an efficiency which is exceeded only by New Iso-Vis. The price is 25 cents a quart.

MOE BERG, THE WHITE SOX CATCHER, IS JEWISH!

WHAT'S BECOME OF THE IRISH BALLPLAYERS?

SPORT BUG.

THE BASEBALL BUG.

Jonah GOLDMAN
-- PROMISING CLEVELAND ROOKIE, WHO HAS A CHANCE TO BECOME THE GREATEST JEWISH STAR SINCE KLING --

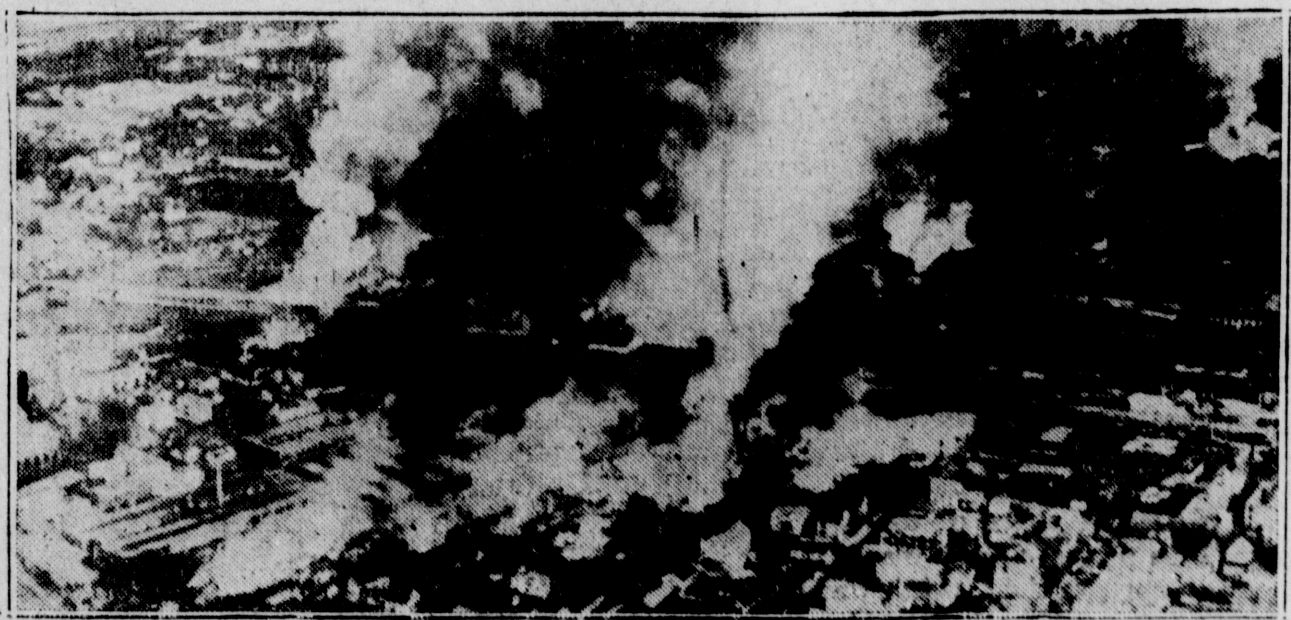

NEW YORK CITY with its huge Hebrew population would add much to its baseball profits if genuinely great Jewish players could be secured by either or both of its big league teams, and the same applies to Brooklyn, which is a part of the metropolis, of course. There have been, and are, many first class Jewish diamond stars, but few attain that definite form to which the adjective "great" can be accurately applied.

Years ago, the Chicago Cubs had Catcher Johnny Kling. He was a Jew and a truly great player from all angles of judging such stars. The Chicago White Sox now have Moe Berg, who was a brilliant college shortstop at Princeton a few years ago and who has since become a catcher. Berg is a skilled performer—one of the brainiest in the game; but he has yet to earn the seal of greatness.

In Jimmy Reese the New York Yankees have a Jewish second baseman who is promising indeed, but his opportunities to shine are limited at present since he is understudy for the remarkable Tony Lazzeri, who has come to his own as one of the truly greats. Many rate "Pooshem Up" as the best all-around player in the big leagues. Always brilliant, Lazzeri is now at the zenith of stardom and was, for Mr. Reese!—Tony may say that way for several seasons ever, Lazzeri's understudy and such seasoning may be good.

Meanwhile, Andy Cohen?

SIX CYLINDER SENTENCES

By DR. JOHN W. HOLLAND

Save up for the "rainy day" or you may get soaked.
History is the record of what we may do if we try.
Temperance is the truest tamer of the human temper.
The tattler who tattles to you will tattle about you.
As between two accusations against a true friend believe the truth of neither.
If hill-tops were only at the bottom, any dillard could succeed.

Searching Ghetto Skies...

By HARDIN BURNLEY

Jonah GOLDMAN—
—PROMISING CLEVELAND
ROOKIE, WHO HAS A CHANCE
TO BECOME THE GREATEST JEWISH STAR
SINCE KLING—

NEW YORK CITY with its huge Hebrew population would add much to its baseball profits if genuinely great Jewish players could be secured by either or both of its big league teams, and the same applies to Brooklyn, which is a part of the metropolis, of course. There have been, and are, many first class Jewish diamond stars, but few attain that definite form to which the adjective "great" can be accurately applied.

Years ago, the Chicago Cubs had a Jewish player, a truly great player from all angles of judging such stars. The Chicago White Sox now have Moe Berg, who was a brilliant college shortstop at Princeton a few years ago and who has since become a catcher. Berg is a skilled performer—one of the brainiest in the game; but he has yet to earn the seal of greatness.

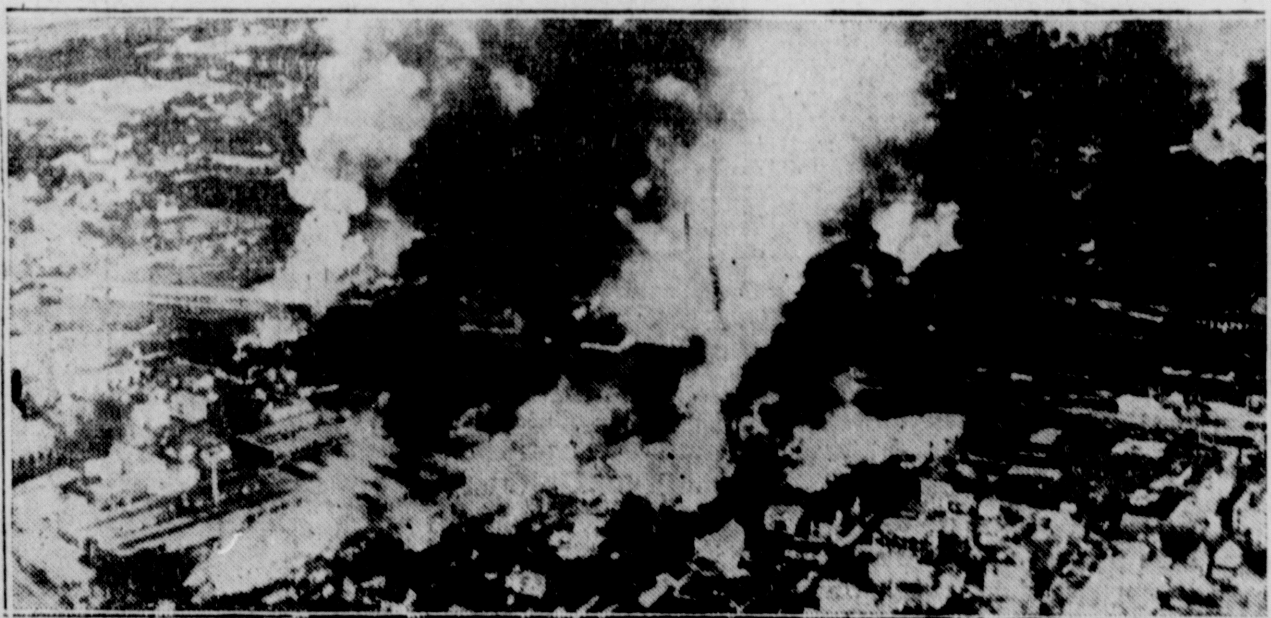

In Jimmy Reese the New York Yankees have a Jewish second baseman who is promising indeed, but his opportunities to shine are limited at present since he is understudy for the remarkable Tony Lazzeri, who has come to his own as one of the truly great. Many rate "Pooshem Up" as the best all-around player in the big leagues. Always brilliant, Lazzeri is now at the zenith of stardom and plays for Mr. Reese—Tony's manager—that way for several seasons over, Lazzeri's understudy is good, and such seasoning may come.

Meanwhile, Andy Cohen, a Giant second baseman, is making a gallant come-back effort at Newark. Andy had some great moments with New York, and McGraw at times thought he had found a great Jewish star at last. But Cohen was not sufficiently consistent and so he slipped to the Grade A minors. Andy burns with ambition to return to the big show and he may yet prove another one of those stars who go to show that "Master Mind" McGraw is only human after all.

Ironically enough, Cleveland has the brightest of the young Jewish stars in the new shortstop Jonah Goldman. He's the kind New York looks for, and he's a New York City boy who starred in high school here. Funny, isn't it, that McGraw and Bob Shawkey missed getting Cohen?
